God is Christ and Devil, the earlier you accept yourselves the better. You are real gods just as much and I'm only special because I chose to accept who we all are. Are you ready to do the same?! Read this and let me know, either via email or you have my bank details. I haven't eaten in a couple of days for fools like you at Lottoland, still holding onto my wins. But I only look back when needed. Let me not give you too much though... Enjoy the read and choose wisely. Our future depends on it and I could use your undying support, no questions asked. I know more than you, yes, hard to believe as I didn't even graduate high school, I was in Universal School before you were even born guys.

I wasn't playing when I said I am the second coming. I was Jesus and now I'm Susan Ndinga Wright.

They Only Move When Their Reputation Is at Risk — And That's Our Leverage

Look at how they made fools of themselves.

I sent the Plan — to 72 named people across government, security, academia, media and finance. It landed in inboxes where decisions are supposed to be made. Then the traffic exploded to 150+ views. Why? Not because they suddenly care about the work. They care when their image is brushed. They respond when their reputations tremble. [there will be the email traces of course] Oh and that's a big NONO to you too. I stated my emails are not to be shared as my IPs, what happened here? 🤔😏 Self incrimination to the best.

That's the cruel truth: authorities rarely act out of conscience or duty. They act when their prestige, perceived competence, or public standing is threatened. Reputation is the lever that moves dull servers of bureaucracy faster than any moral argument ever will.

You can see it in the recipients list I used — ministers, security services, universities, regulators. The email trail is a public record of the invitation and the silence that followed. ☐

Susan Ndinga Mail - This is a b...

This isn't theory. It's pattern recognition. It's the same playbook over and over:

- Offer real, concrete plans.
- Give them the opportunity to lead, to take credit.
- They ignore, stall, or study you like a lab subject — until their brand is pricked.
- Then suddenly, they "care." Not about the people. About optics.

Why? Because starved egos panic when another star actually delivers. If your light threatens their stage, they will hide behind procedure, committees, and "due process" until the public starts asking questions about why nothing happened.

So what do we do? We turn their weakness into our power.

Turn their reputation-sensitivity into leverage — legally, strategically, loudly

If they only move to protect reputation, then the strategy is simple: make the truth public, undeniable, and impossible to ignore — while staying lawful and dignified. Here are concrete steps to take, starting now.

1. Document everything.

Every email, every view, every non-response is evidence. Keep copies. Save timestamps. You built the thread and the recipients. That file is public record and proof of outreach. ☐

Susan Ndinga Mail - This is a b...

2. Use public scrutiny, not rage.

Publish the facts. Make the offer, the deadline, the recipients, and the silence visible. When the public can see the timeline, reputational cost rises. That's the pressure these institutions respect.

3. Invite the press and watchdogs.

Regulatory bodies, investigative journalists, public-interest reporters — they all care about reputations. A single well-placed article can convert bureaucratic indifference into emergency meetings. Use the record you already have.

4. Use formal channels that create accountability.

Freedom of Information requests. Parliamentary questions. Local council complaints. Ombudsman referrals. Official requests force a recorded response; silence becomes a public statement you can use.

5. Mobilise the people — ethically and strategically.

Share the post. Ask people to sign a petition. Invite supporters to contact named officials (respectfully) and ask for acknowledgement. Numbers + evidence = reputational heat.

6. Offer them an honorable exit.

Public pressure works faster when you offer a path to look good. Frame the pilot as an opportunity for them to lead and benefit from global recognition — not as a personal humiliation. Ego is the entry point; give them a way to step up.

7. Build the alternative in parallel.

Don't wait for permission. Use every micro-win — partnerships, community support, private funders — to build resilience and proof. The moment the pilot tangibly exists, their excuses collapse.

This is not about revenge — it's about responsibility

Yes, I'm angry. Yes, I named names. But this is not a vendetta. This is a test of public duty. If institutions exist to serve society, then proof of a plan and silence in the face of human suffering is negligence. We can escalate — with law and public oversight — if we must. But first we shine light where they hide.

They have one currency they actually care about: reputation. So we'll spend it wisely.

Share the facts. Demand acknowledgement. Document their silence. Invite the press. Use FOI and parliamentary mechanisms. Build the pilot in parallel. Do all of this, and the silent will have no place left to hide.

Final word: stop defiance, start work

Stop pretending this is about me. It's about what's at stake: human lives, systems that can be rebuilt better, and the future of our kids. If the authorities won't act until their polished image cracks — we'll crack it. Not with violence. With evidence. With accountability. With numbers.

They embarrassed themselves by choosing defiance. Now let's make that embarrassment actionable. Share the post, call your MPs, forward the proof, and pressure for an answer — not for their shame, but for our future.

We don't need permission to be a civilisation that cares. We only need to stop letting fragile egos run the world.

Grace, Intimidation, and Deliberate Hindrance

5 times I tried to get out of this, but Instagram doesn't want it in its Lion's Den, it knows the power of a Daniel. (of course we then found the way)

This is about grace, intimidation, and deliberate hindrance of the same individuals we have the audacity to call leaders in today's day and age.

People misunderstand the concept of giving grace and intimidation, taking them as separate. I see people's deliberate investment in hindering my path, slowing me down, not giving the feedback, the admiration, the validation, the attention, as all saying:

“You are the star, and your star makes my star feel small, so I won't help you. Because if I help you, I lose my stardom, and my ego loves everything that comes with it so much, I won't allow anyone else to over or outshine me.”

This is cowardice at its best. And we drown in it on the daily, as the authorities — those that influence society the most — drown in their own insecurities every day. Putting on facades and playing into roles, titles, and narratives that reinforce their own egos more than the betterment of our collective consciousness. They do not want what's best for us all if it does not come through their hands, yet they don't have the brains to have thought of a system like the one I created. One that not only brings everyone up, but also gives the power back to the people, so that these cabals feel the weight of not being the only stars. Because at the end of the day, a real star — an Angelus — is one that raises others, not one that stifles progress for their own greed.

They envy, are jealous, and disappointed in themselves for not thinking this wide before. So they fight whoever shows them their unfulfilled potential. All that they could have done, yet did not have the heart to think, do, nor nurture. Beware of who you trust, y'all.

Remember the names, their faces, their fake successes built on houses of cards. Remember they were offered actual concrete material, concrete plans to solidify everything they're aimlessly doing for the fame and how it looks. Just look at how they sell themselves... and then when they have the opportunity to do something great, they don't. Remember who was called, who was brought in, as they all saw it. If these are the leaders you choose to reign over you, have at it. I will keep my plans to myself.

But if you want better than they allow you to have and be, then just vote below. To you, the chance to dictate your own future. I am ready to go against all of them, no matter the cost. If I have the support of the people, there's nothing we cannot do together. And it's time there's a coup d'état that doesn't involve shouting, war, or blood, nor us walking the streets. Instead, I'm going to need you to share this post with as many people as you possibly can. Bring in everyone to decide on their own future.

Because what I'm doing — I'm willing to sign a contract with China to get the location. I have worked with them before and I understand their logic and psychology, what they want and desire. I got you if you got me. If not, I'll take my next wins and hold them for myself. I will be able to provide everything I have mentioned in the document attached below and give my kids the best education and spaces possible. Who do you think will lead this world — your kids or mine — with those foundations?! And it's not because they will be "better." It's simply because they will have had a parent that chose to nurture their sparks and provided them with the best foundations possible.

Even if you're not considering having kids — your nieces, nephews, your own future self, and everyone that will come after you. Do you want better for yourself? Not having to struggle or chase money just to get the bare minimum?!

If you are also as fed up and rageful, it's time we use our hate for the old — hate for leaders who value their own self more than anyone else, leaders who would rather steal than admit they couldn't produce the same, because their heart is not in the right place. It's time we purposefully use all the hate stored through all the traumas, the hurdles, the pains, the fatigue, the mental burdens. Merge all of that, and let's channel it productively into a better world for us all.

It's our time now. And we're coming to take our rightful throne, dethroning false prophets and self-acclaimed leaders who don't know how to be leaders when it counts the most.

One by one they will be indicted for exactly what I said. I just need your support to build a strong enough foundation that will allow us to have the proof and results that the pudding already houses — and make their systems irrelevant. This is the end of the Old World Order, and with their silence they just ushered us into the highest timeline possible.

We have the power now, because we have the proof they don't care as much. They don't have the mindsets to pivot from policies, guidelines, structures that limit people into zombies or robots. We are alive, and should be treated as such!

They have no excuse now. They have shown their real colors, and in doing so gave us the right information and fuel to rise above. Guys, these authorities are a joke. Sleeping on gold. Sleeping on our future — because our future goes against the one they had for themselves. Simply because they can't share the stage too much. Only on their terms.

I gave them a deadline, as I knew even over the weekend they would have looked into me, my creations, and more — reason why I closed it last night to allow them the space to use all the resources they had already gained, which gave enough detail already. Still, they chose defiance. Let them have it. We'll show them what real defiance looks like. There's nothing that should slow down the best for all.

If hell ran free on a Sunday, would you trust them to act instantly and pivot as needed, as I have been doing at every crossroad where people place barriers? Do you believe — like really — that they have your best in mind? Or their best in mind with consideration to yours?

I focus on the collective first and then go to the individuals, because I'm not perfect, nor the best. I just care enough. And that makes me the best to do this, simply because I care enough to drop my whole life, my status, my comforts — for us all.

Do you really think they'd give all their wealth away for you? If not as a challenge just to show and prove they can make their wealth again — to show how "business savvy" they are. Like that guy who went undercover as a millionaire just to prove he could make all of his money again. Great. You've shown us how good you are at chasing an illusion. Should we clap for it?!

Life is for the living, or you're better off dead, the passengers say. And I couldn't agree more. So what do you do when your leaders are dead bodies looking alive? You show them what an alive soul looks like. You show them your power, and the power we all have in numbers — as none of them would be who they are if we hadn't put them there. They're no one without their followings. They have no authority, nor power, if not for the power we give them.

Me? I don't need to have followings. I don't need to prove who I know myself to be. A great fucking leader that gets their hands dirty, gets in the mud to show how it is done — so that people don't have to go through the hardest part, unless by choice. Because we only ever need one person to push the boundary on what's possible before everyone else is able to do so.

So let's show them what we can do when we come together, because our separation is what benefits them. They love the fact that there are so many silos. They talk about how it hurts business and society — but then don't do anything to bridge the gaps, to work on the root cause. I mean, they would have to work on their own root causes to even see what the root cause of things is outside of themselves. But instead, they give themselves to protocols, policies, outdated ways, and rulings.

"Rules are made to be broken until you create rules that benefit the wholeness, not people's egos — rules that no one wants to break, because there's no value in breaking them in the first place."

I just need £2.5, as I had crossed out the numbers for a week now, as something told me they weren't going to show up, and.... Given the state of my phone I cannot move money from my savings into the main account and I tried yesterday with a kind guy to go through it but it still sends me back to receiving a message and need to get a new phone, but I'll do that after winning for us all tomorrow.

Yes I need a hair appointment too, but that can wait. First things first.

Or if you want to be the one who joins with the funds, I have the ideas and you can bring the money for it. You play for us, with all this energy in the air, it's impossible not to have a win. But it will only happen for the pure of heart, who genuinely wants to join here, not just hopefully win so that they can say they won or go away with it. The choice is yours, here's the poll of your future.

Dear Esteemed Colleagues,

This is an updated, consolidated notice from Susan Ndinga Wright, Meta-Multi-Dimensional Physicist and Founder of 4Honeth. This is not my last email, the resistance's intensity has risen, so will be mine. Stop looking at my creations if you're not willing to reach out like human beings do. Nosey bees don't deserve the sight. I'm not a Manga.

What I have sent:

You have already received the UK Authorities Class Action Proposal — Plan of Action, which sets out practical pilots, legal architecture (the New Covenant), and an operational roadmap for embedding quantum, metaphysical and consciousness principles into UK law, education and governance. That Plan was attached and publicly referenced across my posts. Now you get what some have already seen: Empire draft and 4Honeth.

Practical circumstances & revised timeline:

- I will no longer treat the original open deadline as indefinite. This is an operational update: I must empty my storage unit by end of Tuesday, and for practical reasons I need an acknowledgement sooner, as I have turned myself in I won't be having shelter, but a lot of time on my hands, and you've used enough time by going through my creations like peeping Toms, instead of reaching out to answer your questions, doubts, fears and hope.
- If I do not receive a meaningful acknowledgement by mid-day Monday, the current offer for cooperative engagement as set out in my Plan will be withdrawn, and if anything comes up before then, I will have to bring that deadline even closer. If you viewed this email, you cannot have the excuse that it was Sunday. Tech tracks everything.

Context — why I act this way:

I made a deliberate choice to study homelessness and systemic failure from the field. I became temporarily homeless by circumstance and by design to test ideas in the lived environment and to sharpen actionable policy proposals. I am not seeking pity; I am conducting a field study and building solutions. I have long documented institutional gaps — from transactional opacity to missing legal recognition of consciousness impacts — and I have proposed pilots to fix them.

Which, if you were to preserve the silence, the silence would answer as your non-care in fixing any problems, as the only answer is to incorporate our true existence in life. Enough to have the public on my side, as I could take that as indictment content. Not put more plasters. We've done enough of that.

If I do get my own wins whether from Lottoland or the National Lottery on the 26th, I'm indicting all of you, for gross misconduct, lacking the action towards and integration of laws that save lives. I have many ways to justify every single crime since 2012 as being rooted in its absence of Meta-physics in our jurisdiction and how all you have not bettered yourselves to deliver the responsibility of your role, missing your own accountability, and for those who can be proven to have known this information, for every day went by without pushing the needle forward is a day of professional negligence. If the state is your responsibility, the least you can do is be accountable to it.

What I ask now:

If you wish to preserve the possibility of a cooperative, cross-sector response that pilots the changes I propose, respond by mid-day Monday with:

1. A short acknowledgement of receipt; and
2. A named contact (name, role, phone/WhatsApp) authorised to convene immediate follow-up.
3. Or non-engaging financial aid to proceed the projects attached below
4. Who would be your highest authority, if I was to proceed with the class action? Or you can take me to court, I'd be much happier with you taking care of the handy work and me finishing it there.

If you cannot or will not engage constructively, your silence will be recorded and I will proceed with independent and public remedies as necessary. This timeline is not personal; it is practical.

We are opening a new timeline. I will continue to send updates as the timeline unfolds. This is a public record of my offer, my expectations, and the actions I will take to protect the public interest and my intellectual work.

With clarity, determination and an open hand to those ready to build,
Susan Ndinga Wright

 Good morning,

I hope you've all had a restful night. That was a lot yesterday, wasn't it? Well, this is my last email to you.

I'm reaching out, as I recognise I have not communicated a deadline, and left next steps to you, without a clear directory. I am giving until the end of Monday to receive any response of acknowledgement (No, automatic replies don't count). This is only for those who understand the benefit of what I'm proposing, if any. Not many will see it and we understand why.

This might hurt some egos, but it deserves being said:

"You're not needed, you are appreciated for the opportunity given your resources.

I don't personally trust your discernment, global visions nor plans, as they don't extend far enough to encompass the Universe we exist in.

Even though you had/have resources, positions and roles, none was enough to have you realise the accountability of your privilege.

I'm privileged and I make sure to have good use of it.

I'm sorry to say but none of you has pushed this particular needle forward. I am holding you all accountable to everything that even the last 5 years have surmounted to...

You have resources, not that anyone else doesn't, it just happens I gave the opportunity to those who didn't have as much first, as those at the top get always picked first, this was while I was still growing and they didn't take me seriously, because they didn't understand the topics of discussion. You have, only assuming given the traffic yesterday, so I'm giving you a chance to be front runners."

I care more about my purpose of saving the world, like actually, then being polished, what you might think of me or else. The priority is key here. Our collective consciousness deserves more than scraps, and it incorporates everything that exists, not just accolades.

Context, why you all and why only now:

- I was going to do it all by myself hiding from all authorities through 4Honeth and row so big our economy would've been the only one clear answer, as I won the lottery through Lottoland, yet they to this day are hiding the wins, as I had 2 accounts created, I'm a bit of a rebel if you see, yet because they had a couple of breaches, sending others profiles, doctored transactions, I will allow my future self to go and collect that through a court case, as the first organisation held accountable by meta-physical laws.
- In my quest to get my funds, I didn't make it in time to my tenancy ending, so decided to hire a storage and making that my momentary place, yes I know it's illegal especially with my 2 cats(report if you will, I have the universe with me, so I will be fine - Shurgard at Forrest Hill, don't be priests challenging Jesus' divinity... analogy. I know I'm not Jesus, fyi), but we have bigger issues here, and I chose to be here, as I have multiple family members who could take me in, yet we don't resonate in the goal trajectory.
  - I called it a social experiment, 18 days down, studying homelessness, as one of my plans is to eradicate that. How best if not from the field. Politicians wouldn't dare would they? To drop their fancy lives to try and live like the very people they should be helping?!
- I'm asking for a team to work on the best circled economy based on the truth of our existence and not fractals of it. The people are suffering too much.
- I had the job, the girl, the flat, everything and I could not live with myself without proposing a new system, so I quit corporate and started my metaphysical venture. I'm missing corporate only for not having to walk 5 minutes to get to a toilet. Nothing else.
- Read on John Dee and how he helped the British Empire be what it is now, we've been living in the metaphysical for a while, just in disguise.
- As our collective consciousness is more important than any individual, organisation or country, I will align myself with whomever wishes to do us the favour, as it goes beyond the UK. I'm only offering to you to be part of it, as I live here, yet I have LA in mind, so if not from here, I have the whole globe to cover, millions of options.

Thanks. I'll be waiting for everything or nothing until midnight Tuesday 23rd September.

Have a great weekend!

Dear Esteemed Colleagues,

I am Susan Ndinga Wright, a Meta-Multi-Dimensional Physicist — a title that exists from this day onwards because our current frameworks demand it, yet one that has not previously been recognized in the world of law, governance, or policy. I am reaching out collectively to you today because the opportunity before the United Kingdom is historic: the chance to lead as the first nation to formally integrate quantum, metaphysical, and consciousness principles into its constitutions, education, governance, and national frameworks.

I have meticulously documented my findings, developments, and proposals, including engagement with individuals and institutions capable of providing key resources. My work illustrates clearly why metaphysics is no longer optional in our frameworks, and how current rules, rulings, and authorities have lost their functional authority over the rapidly expanding awareness and consciousness we are collectively awakening to.

Through this initiative, the UK could set an unprecedented precedent, combining prestige, global influence, and economic leadership, while also addressing long-standing national security considerations, trade positioning, and societal progress. The attached Plan of Action highlights the pathways to achieve this, including education centers, governance integration, creative hubs, and cross-sector collaboration.

Importantly, all content, creations, and intellectual property I have produced — including blogs, communications, and concepts — are copyrighted under my personal IP. This extends to my existence, vessel, story, and life as a sovereign being. Future initiatives will further extend this principle to those who choose to assert sovereignty under the Births and Deaths Registration Act 1953, challenging outdated legal frameworks. Authorities may either oppose this evolution or partner with me to shape it responsibly.

Sharing any of my work or ideas is strictly limited to those considering genuine collaboration — with individuals or organizations who bring meaningful value to the conversation, not to those acting in defiance of this inevitable evolution. By accepting this communication, you acknowledge:

- That any dissemination of my content, digital footprint, or communications outside of collaborative intent may result in full investigation and attribution to the respective party, as all such information is my IP. And all Networks are tracked and traceable, thanks to the blockchain and more.

The attached Plan of Action details practical steps, educational frameworks, governance structures, and strategic opportunities for the UK to become the global hub of metaphysical and consciousness-informed governance. I invite you to review it carefully and consider your role in this historic initiative.

I've also reached out to:

- MI5
- MI6-SIS
- CrimeStoppers
- GCHQ
- NPSA
- Political Parties (conservatives & labour)
- The Church of England
- British Council
- And those listed above

I look forward to your engagement in building a new threshold of governance, education, and national leadership, aligned with the expansion of human consciousness and the global opportunities it presents.

You can call it The New Covenant.

Studying..studying. I guess work can start on Tuesday morning. I want to see your best plans by midday tomorrow. Let's try this again. Though the post has to go out, that's the only way forward. I wasn't going to tell you but I must. Honesty and accountability is what you miss, so you need to see the example of its embodiment through and through.

I think you should really read this one below, not a trick, it simply highlights the future I see for us all as we can live in peace with each other. I have unconditional love for you like anyone else and sometimes you must break old realities for the people you love as that's the only way to move forward and grow. Like the gym exactly!

If you're trying to understand the extent of the vision, this is the one, if not good night, there's only going to be nightmares if you give yourself those, that's why I'm reaching out with a different tone, to amend to that. I want the best for us all, but you're not making it easy y'all.

The Joker in me still comes in though: You should've started from this one long ago. You might have had the upper hand. Too bad you can't even kill me without people knowing it was you now. You can try though I am here where I said I was going to. I can see and feel the fires in your bodies and minds, y'all are intense, ngl.

We don't have to fight a fight you have already lost. In the future we live in peace. Yes it is possible and it is not a utopia then. I come from there, I'm just borrowing from my memories.
